China stands for safeguarding the international nuclear non-proliferation regime, and maintaining peace and stability in the Middle East. China maintains that the Iranian nuclear issue should be resolved peacefully through diplomatic negotiations. China hopes that relevant parties step up diplomatic efforts, maintain and promote the process of dialogues and negotiations and seek comprehensive, enduring and appropriate solutions to the Iranian nuclear issue.

China is ready to work with the international community and actively participate in relevant diplomatic efforts, with a view to playing a constructive role in promoting a peaceful solution to the Iranian nuclear issue through diplomatic negotiations.
